

TARIFF BODY MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS

Subject Has Been Critically and Exhaustively Studied by the Commission.

DISCARD "FAVORED NATION"

All Countries Should Receive Equal Treatment and Be Given the Same.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—A report on reciprocity and commercial treaties is now under preparation by the federal tariff commission. It was learned here today, and will be ready for distribution at an early date, that the commission is in view of the increased interest in commercial policies and in treaty methods stimulated by the war conditions and by the peace conference discussions at Paris, it is pointed out that the commission will be moved with considerable interest at this particular time.

The report is divided into three main sections, dealing respectively with the reciprocity experiences of the United States, the policies and practices of this country in respect to commercial treaties, and in particular, the use of the most-favored nation clause, and the tariff systems and bargaining methods followed by the principal European countries.

History of Reciprocity. The survey of American reciprocity experiences covers all the cases in which reciprocity has been established with other countries. It was established that particular attention is paid to the reciprocity treaties of 1854 with Canada and 1875 with Hawaii, the reciprocity agreements concluded under the tariff acts of 1890 and 1897 with a number of Latin-American and European countries; the reciprocity treaty of 1902 with Cuba; the arrangement of 1904 whereby Brazil grants preferential tariff treatment on certain American products, especially wheat flour; and the unsuccessful attempt in 1910-11 to establish reciprocity relations with Canada. For each of these a thorough legislative and diplomatic record is given. Comprehensive statistical charts assist in the study of the effects of the several arrangements on the commerce of the United States. The demonstration, that the aid of elaborate price charts, that the reduction in the Cuban sugar duties has operated to reduce the American market price of raw sugar, and the attempt to appraise the value to American exporters of existing Brazilian preferential on American products are among the subjects of special interest in these studies. This part of the report contains in addition a critical analysis of the bargaining features of all American tariff laws since 1890.

GERMAN MERCANTILE FLEET CONSISTS OF 723 VESSELS

BERLIN, Wednesday, March 13.—The mercantile fleet in German harbors, disposition of which will be decided at an early date at the food and shipping conference at Brussels, consists, according to German figures, of 723 vessels of 1,988,700 gross tons, and 136 sailing vessels of 12,600 tons. The sailing craft and some of the smaller steamers will, however, be left by the entente to Germany for coastal traffic.

The steamer figures include steamers finished during the war, but not the unfinished steamers which the Germans continue to construct but not demanded under the armistice.

The fate of German steamers in neutral ports is not absolutely known, although many of them probably have been seized. The German information regarding the action of the neutral governments is incomplete.

The total tonnage that may be surrendered to the entente is approximately 2,250,000 gross.

GREEK COMMITTEE IS NOT AGREED ON ITS REPORTS

PARIS, March 13.—The report of the commission of peace conference which has been considered by the Greek territorial claims, is not unanimous concerning regions which should be appertained to Greece in the peace settlement. The majority of the commission favored giving Smyrna to Greece as the city has a large Greek population and lies immediately opposite Athens, across the Aegean sea. American members of the commission took a different view, however, holding that Smyrna was essential as a port of exit and entrance for the vast commercial enterprises of the hinterland of Asia Minor. Thus divided, the report goes before the council of the great powers for final decision. Concerning the Dodecanese islands, the commission was unanimous in recognizing the Greek civilization of the islands.

GATHERING STATISTICS ON TRADE CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, March 13.—A constantly increasing mass of data on industrial conditions abroad which is being accumulated by the bureau of domestic and foreign trade of the department of commerce will be turned over to the national industrial conference board for dissemination among manufacturers interested. William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, announced at a meeting of that organization here today.

A committee was appointed to receive, classify, and distribute the data. The conference board includes in its membership 21 state and national associations of manufacturers.

ANDREW AND IMOGENE

IMOGENE was standing at the window looking out at the steadily falling snow. Her gaze was fixed and she stood immovable and quiet for so long Andrew looked up at her curiously.

"What are you thinking about?" he asked, suddenly.

"I beg your pardon?" she said, startled.

"Oh, don't apologize. I didn't know it was anything like that."

"Oh," she said, "I was thinking that when the snow comes drifting, drifting silently and so steadily it kind of fascinates me and hypnotizes me. My mind just wanders off, turning and twisting on its track like a puppy crossing a lawn."

"When you spoke I was thinking that there is something so awe-inspiring and so relentless in nature and was thinking how awful it would be to be dead or with a broken leg or something and be lying out in a storm like this and know that slowly, but surely, you were going to be buried with those soft, feathery snowflakes, and thinking about that broken leg made me think of the time you broke your arm playing football when you were in college and we were engaged."

"I know that day I was wearing a seal skin coat my father had bought me, and it only cost one hundred and fifty dollars, and even a mink coat costs three or four hundred now, and I was wishing I had bought two or three seal skin coats then and put them in cold storage and saved them until now, and that made me think that the chicken we had last night must have been cold storage, for it certainly was tough, after all the time I let it cook, too."

"That reminded me of something I had never thought of before, too—that it pays to buy the better grade of chickens, for they are younger and fresher, and although they cost a little more in the first place, one saves the difference in price in the coal one burns cooking them, and this brought me around to thinking about money."

"How queer!" exclaimed he.

"If certainly is funny about money," she declared the interruption.

"When a person goes down town and hasn't a cent they see so many things in the windows and stores they want, and then when they have a few extra dollars there is nothing on earth they care for, and that reminded me that I saw in the Marmola store window yesterday a black kimono just like that lavender one of mine with the wisteria blooms on it, and I was thinking about dyeing mine, as it has been cleaned so often, but I do not like black and was wondering if it would dye peacock blue, and that reminded me of the peacocks they had at Everetts, back home, and wondered if you knew Sam had been elected mayor, and I wondered why you had not gotten into politics, and I was wondering whether the pleasure of being on reception committees and things like the mayors would make up for all the nights you would have to be out making speeches from the back-end of carts and off soap-boxes, and I was wondering why it was that when people make a speech off a box it is always a soap box and never a canned corn box or—"

"And yet we are surprised that we do not understand 'em!" exclaimed Andrew, raising his hands.

"What, soap boxes?" asked Imogene.

"That was all very interesting," said Andrew in the tone of voice which the conductor uses when he announces, "End of the route!"

ERZBERGER REFUSES TO ATTEND AS HUN ENVOY

BASEL, March 13.—Mathias Erzberger has refused to be a member of the delegation at the peace conference, although pressure has been brought to bear upon him to bring about his acceptance, according to a Berlin dispatch, which is said to have been based upon authoritative information.

Negotiations between inter-allied and German commissions concerning the questions of feeding Germany in exchange for certain German commodities began on Wednesday.

Sub-committees were appointed to take up the question of exchange of potatoes and dyes for food.

WHITE BOYS CAUGHT WITH BLACK MASKS

Boys Arrested at Sapulpa Suspected of Impersonating Negroes and Shooting Car Conductor.

Two white boys, John Perry and Jim Campbell, 17 and 18 years old, respectively, were arrested in Sapulpa after the attempted holdup of an express messenger in the Tulsa yards at 10 o'clock last night and the finding on them of pistols, black gloves and black handkerchiefs, with eye holes cut in them, leads the police to believe that impersonating negroes, they had taken part in the shooting of conductor Wright on the interurban line at Rozarth switch, near Red Fork, Tuesday night.

The youths were arrested by Motorcycle Officer Patton of the Sapulpa police department shortly after the hold up of the express messenger was reported. Nothing was taken from the messenger, as he showed light and the would-be robbers quickly fled.

The two negroes, who were arrested at Sapulpa Wednesday, were brought to Tulsa Thursday by Sheriff James O'Walley, but neither of them was identified by Conductor Wright or Motorman Greason.

Conductor Wright is recovering from the bullet wound in his neck and is now believed to be out of danger.
